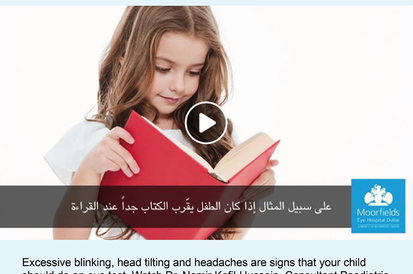
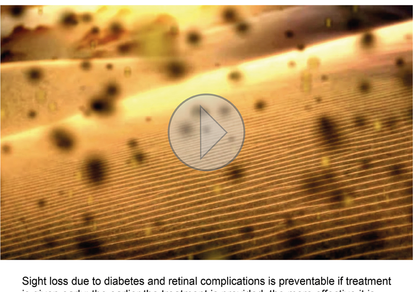
The Right Age to Have a Child's Vision Checked



Excessive blinking, head tilting and headaches are signs that your child should do an eye test. Watch Dr. Namir Kafil-Hussain, Consultant Paediatric Ophthalmologist, talk about the right time to have a child's vision assessed.

Retinal Problems and Diabetes



Sight loss due to diabetes and retinal complications is preventable if treatment is given early; the earlier the treatment is provided, the more effective it is. If you have diabetes, a yearly eye check is essential to maintain your eye health, and more frequently if any diabetic changes are found.

Moorfields Eye Hospital Dubai has a dedicated advanced retinal and diabetic eye disease department, staffed by our team of Consultant Vitreoretinal Surgeons and Medical Retina Specialists with a wide range of experience in the management of vitreoretinal and medical retina cases.

Rubbing/Touching Your Eyes Is Not a Good Idea

Dr. Luisa Sastre, Specialist Ophthalmologist in Medical Retina, talks about why you shouldn't rub your eyes.

Many of us tend to rub or touch our eyes frequently (consciously or not) during the course of every day. But did you know that every time we do this, we are taking serious risks? Many eye diseases that have a connection with touching or rubbing your eyes.
