Happy Patient - Bradley Ellis

Bradley, our 8 year old patient, is far-sighted and loves playing rugby and football but was always hindered because of his glasses. He visited Moorfields Eye Hospital Dubai with his mother where he met our optometrist Zachary Cairns who gave him the answer to his concerns – using contact lenses. Bradley now enjoys his time in the fields without having to worry about his glasses falling off.

Welcome to the Team: Dr. Rola Ba-Abbad

Mohammed Bin Rashid University of Medicine and Health Sciences signs affiliation agreement with Moorfields Eye Hospital Dubai

Mohammed Bin Rashid University (MBRU) has come together with the renowned Moorfields Eye Hospital Dubai (MEHD) to provide Ophthalmology curriculum to the undergraduate students of the MBRU College of Medicine as part of their core curriculum. In addition, MEHD is offering MBRU medical students a two-week clinical rotation.

MEHD will organise and deliver teaching activities related to the field of ophthalmology for undergraduate students. MEHD will also chart out an annual educational plan covering the subject of ophthalmology and provide students with educational material on the subject and will oversee the entire programme.

A Memorandum of Understanding (MOU) ratifying this collaboration was signed by Dr. Amer Sharif of MBRU, and David Probert and Elhadi Hassan of Moorfields Eye Hospitals in London and Dubai, on January 21st at the MBRU campus in Dubai Healthcare City.

Moorfields Dubai International Ophthalmology Conference - Highlights
